In probability theory and related fields, a stochastic or random process is a mathematical object usually defined as a collection of random variables. Historically, the random variables were associated with or indexed by a set of numbers, usually viewed as points in time, giving the interpretation of a stochastic process representing numerical values of some system randomly changing over time ...

A geometric Brownian motion (GBM) (also known as exponential Brownian motion) is a continuous-time stochastic process in which the logarithm of the randomly varying quantity follows a Brownian motion (also called a Wiener process) with drift. It is an important example of stochastic processes satisfying a stochastic differential equation (SDE); in particular, it is used in mathematical finance ...

Story. Doing Data Science Exercises Without Data Cleaning and Coding. So as a data scientists/data journalist/information designer, who is about to teach university courses, I asked is it possible to teach and introductory level class that does not require first learning a lot about data cleaning and coding?
